The Women and Children.

"I wish I was a pudding, mamma!" "Why?" "Cause I should have such lots of sugar put into me."

"Oh, John! Drunk again," sobbed his wife, as he returned from a midnight spelling school. "N-n-ot so, Elisabeth," he replied. "It's only the bird singing in my heart. That's all."

A Chicago gentleman cannot understand why his nephew needs a cigar-case He carries them in his breast pocket, and never has them broken. The man seems to forget that he is married.

A Cleaveland woman recently married a Chinese laundryman and in three days after the unhappy celestial appeared at a barber's shop and ordered his pigtail cut off, saying in explanation: "Too muchee dam yank."

"Father," replied a Cairo girl, tears in her eyes, "you may jaw and jaw, and howl and rip and tear, but I'll marry John Stewart if I die for it." And the old man realized that he might as well try to pull a locomotive up hill.

A "cullud chap" was hugging a salmon-colored maid on the levee last night, when she whispered sweetly in his ear. "I don't mind your huggin' me, Jim, but, fo' de Lord's sake, don't touch dat bile on de back o' my neck." —Courier-Journal.

A Texas woman has learned to use the lasso so deftly that she can stand in the door and haul the hat off the lightning rod peddler while he is unfastning the gate.

A little child comes down from the nursery to say good-night to her mother, who is just going out to a ball. She sees her mother for the first time in her evening dress, and exclaimes: "O, mamma! How pretty you are when you are undressed."

"Who is that a statute of?" asked a lady of her husband, pointing to an "Apollo." "The Apollo Belvidere." "Law! how affectionate you are, my love! And now, darinig who was Apollo Belvy?" An explanation on pronounciation followed.

During a conversation between two citizens of Detroit, one of them a widower, remarked: "I have just returned from Elmwood Cemetry, and I feel downhearted." "Yes, it makes a man feel sad to view the grave of a lost, loved wife," was the reply. "Wife—grave!" exclaimed the first; "why, I was up that way to collect some money from a fellow who had been owing me for a year past, and I couldn't get a red!"

General Spinner writes as follows to Seth Green, the pisciculturist: "The time will come, if it is not already here, when the credit of having demonstrated that an acre of heretofore water waste is worth more for the production of wholesome food for a man than an acre of the most fertile land, will be awarded to you. Next winter I intend to fish in Florida waters, where I hope you will meet me with rod and line."

The insect that was injuring the potatoes and grain growing about Half-moon Bay has been sent to kingdom come by the late heavy fogs.

Borrowing Money.

Borrowing money upon the installment plan is attended with these advantages: The loan can be repaid in small monthly amounts which include the interest and part of the principal, so that by the expiration of the term it can be all paid without any great inconvenience to the borrower. The rate of interest is generally lower. The expenses of obtaining the money are not so great as in ordinary loans, and if it is borrowed upon good paying property then it often happens that the rents will meet the monthly installments and in time pay off the debt.

For further and other particulars inquire of

The stores will be just half as large as they are now, and, as the Important has a very large stock on hand, they will not have half room enough for their goods and in order to prevent them from being damaged by dirt and dust, they have decided to sell all their Spring goods at less than cost, and others, such as cottons, table-linen, etc., at exact cost. We advise all to call at the Important and convince themselves of the great bargains. Such bargains they can never get again, and in order to prevent a great rush, we advise all to call early and take advantage of the building of the Lafayette Hotel. a16

WEDNESDAY,.....MAY 26, 1875.

WHO wrote the poetry entitled "First Love," the first line of which reads, "Whom first we love, you know, we seldom wed"? We had the impression that it was the production of "OWEN MEREDITH," BULWER'S son; but we notice the lines reproduced in a late number of the Call and credited to JULIA WARD HOWE. Whom first we loved we remember very well. She was a little freckled-faced, golden-haired elf, to whom we used to give half of our dinner and all of our speckled marbles at school some years ago. She expanded to one hundred and forty pounds, developed a retrousse nose and married a railroad conductor. But who wrote "Whom first we love" is what is troubling us just now.

Death of Jesse D. Bright.

JESSE D. BRIGHT, a man of national fame, died at Baltimore a few days ago. He was a native of Norwich, Shenango county, New York, where he was born on the 18th of December, 1812. His public life commenced in the State of Indiana, where he practiced law and was State Senator and Lieutenant-Governor. The State in his day was strongly Democratic and being an ardent supporter of that party's principles his talent and oratory soon made him a leader. He represented the State in the United States Senate three terms, commencing in 1845. In 1862 charges of disloyalty were preferred against him, based on the evidence that in 1861 he wrote a letter to JEFFERSON DAVIS, President of the Confederate States, recommending or introducing a person who was desirous of furnishing the Confederacy with arms. On this charge he was expelled from the Senate on the 2d of February, 1862, by a vote of 34 to 14. From that time he took no active part in politics.

Fire Where There is Smoke.

Every now and then one of San Francisco's blackmailing newspapers will make an attack on one of her many prominent citizens who have millions of money, and forthwith all the other newspapers, not many of whom are a whit more honest but who do not happen to be in with that particular attempt to extract hush-money, rush to the rescue and denounce the attacking journal as an infamous blackmailing concern that has sunk so low that it does not scruple to blacken the character of honest men. Now we do not question the truth of any part of this except the "honest men" clause. An honest man with a large bank account who stands among the king-pins of the community is a difficult subject to blackmail. Conscious of his own rectitude, he has nothing to fear from the slanders of a newspaper, and to its insinuations that he has swindled a widow or robbed an orphan, he simply points to his record. In a community whose leading citizens are composed entirely of honest men, blackmailing newspapers are not a success. Their attacks do not bring the longed for check, they die out and the honest man smiles over the grave of his calumniator. San Francisco does not seem to be entirely made up of honest men, and, if we can believe their statements of each other, fully one-half of her newspapers owe their existence to successful blackmailing. If those prominent citizens were really honest men, attacks would not hurt and vehement defense would be unnecessary. Better still, those blackmailing journals would find themselves in the position of the Moor after he smothered his wife.

A Sensible Suggestion.

The question of irrigation comprises not only how we can best utilize the waters of our rivers, but to utilize it, will ultimately become the absorbing topic of discussion throughout the State. This year there is more said on the subject than ever before, and next year more will be said than this. So we shall go on talking and suggesting, realizing more and more year by year the absolute necessity for doing what we all want to do and what we are all trying to think how to do, until some practical plan is hit upon and then will come the consummation so devoutly wished. Among the multifarious plans and suggestions already offered, we regard that of our correspondent, "J. G. D.," whose communication appeared some days ago, as possessing more of the elements of practicability and better calculated to insure the greatest good to the greatest number, than any other. The great danger to be guarded against is that of preventing the monopolization of the water by private corporations. If the ownership of our lakes and rivers is once vested in individuals, the foundation is laid on which to build the castle of discrimination and oppression. If a company or corporation own the waters of an irrigation district, they hold a power over the soil tillers of that district which may be used for purposes of extortion, political supremacy or the gratification of personal animosity. The individual absorption of water rights which belong to the State, now steadily going forward, cannot but be productive of great wrong to posterity and we regard it as much the duty of our State authorities to protect these rights as it is to collect the revenue for the maintenance of the State Government. The position of "J. G. D.," that the lakes and rivers within her borders are the property of the State, is so strong that it cannot be controverted. Spain reserved this right and ceded it with the territory. It passed with California in the transfer of that territory from Mexico to the United States. The only intrenchment on this law which the records will bear out is the Pueblo right which the Mexican Government in a few instances granted, of which the right of Los Angeles city to the water of Los Angeles river is one. If, then, the State asserts and maintains her exclusive ownership to the waters of all her lakes and rivers, the first and most important step toward the inauguration of a State system of irrigation is accomplished. The next is the placing of the entire management of the work in the hands of the Surveyor-General, who will survey and superintend the digging of ditches where the waters they shall convey will be most productive of desirable results. After the formation of districts, the people will elect officers, who, under the direction of the State Surveyor, will keep in repair the ditches and dispose of the water. If we follow out this idea in detail, it will not be difficult to show that all this can be accomplished without the issuance of bonds, and that while so utilizing her water, she will annually add millions to her products. Even if there is no revenue from this source, the return in the increased value of taxable property will more than pay the expense of completing the system.

Timely Warning.

The sanitary advantages of Los Angeles have been proverbial throughout the State. Everywhere they once spoke of this city as a healthful place. We would be glad to record that the facts would sustain this reputation now and in future, but we are afraid we cannot do so. Nature has done everything for us, and did we but avail ourselves of our natural advantages our sanitary condition would remain as in the past—the best in California. The want of sewerage is impairing the health of the whole city, and unless the evil is remedied it will not be long before miasmic fevers and endemic diseases will be as common in Los Angeles as in Sacramento and other not thoroughly drained cities. Los Angeles is a city grown from an old Spanish town. Its sewerage, though without plan or system, was sufficient for all practical purposes while the population did not exceed a few thousand, but now that we have a city of fifteen thousand and are growing rapidly, the old drains and ditches are not equal to the demand upon them, and the result is cesspools and foul blots in such number that in any other climate than this an epidemic would sweep the city. Sickness, especially among children, is becoming common and parents are growing anxious for the safety of their little ones. There is no doubt but that the greater portion of the sickness prevailing in this city is due to imperfect sewerage. When in San Francisco a few weeks ago, the editor of the HERALD heard a gentleman who had spent several weeks in this city and who had visited us for the purpose of making his home here, assert that Los Angeles was the poorest drained city he had ever seen, and he believed that but for the sea breeze which fanned it daily no one could live there. This is a strong indictment, and the worst of it is it contains too much truth. This city is expanding rapidly—more rapidly than any other place in the State outside of San Francisco—and we talk of having from 40,000 to 50,000 people here within the next few years. Such statements as above quoted will not aid us in the acquisition of that population and unless we do something to controvert such statements, we have attained the maximum of our growth. What that something should be is the point to be reached. In the opinion of our best engineers and of many citizens who have given the subject much study, the first step toward the establishment of an adequate system of sewerage is the construction of a main sewer from the city to tide water. How this may be done best and cheapest is subject matter for the consideration of all. That we shall have to build such a sewer sooner or later is as certain as the sun shines. We are now expending a large sum of money in putting down sewers here and there, but they run nowhere and will never drain the city until a main sewer is provided with which to connect all side drains. We may as well meet this difficulty now. It must be met and overcome or we shall suffer at home and the fair fame of our city will be tarnished abroad.

Starvation in Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, May 24th.—A Sedalia dispatch says three members of a family named Finley died from starvation in Cooper county last week. A special from Jefferson City says that people from various parts of the State declare most of the grasshopper talk unfounded. They are very thick in some counties, but are doing little or no damage to crops.

Beecher-Tilton.

NEW YORK, May 24th.—In the Beecher-Tilton case, Porter to-day continued his argument for the defendant. The Court room was crowded. He will conclude his argument to-morrow.

The Blue and the Gray.

MEMPHIS, May 24th.—Business was suspended to-day in the observation of the memorial services at Elmwood. The streets are crowded with people, and the procession is the largest ever seen here, except, perhaps, the funeral services of General Lee. The ex-Federal soldiers have turned out, and in the ranks are seen the battle flags of both the Federal and Confederate armies. At no time since the close of the war has there been such a genuine intermingling of the blue and the gray as was presented to-day.

A Cotton Decision.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Court of Claims to-day rendered a decision covering a number of claims for cotton seizures in Mississippi during the war, the amounts aggregating nearly $1,000,000.

No opinion has been delivered in the Pacific Railroad transportation case, but may be next Monday.

Foreign News.

LONDON, May 24th.—Paul Boynton will make another attempt to cross the English Channel in his life preserving dress next Friday.

A special from Rome says the Pope is seriously ill.

A meeting of the Emperors of Austria, Germany and Russia has been decided on. It will probably take place at Elms.

CITY OF MEXICO, May 15th.—The Federal troops are reported to have suffered a reverse at the hands of the insurgents in San Luis Potosi. The Government is taking measures to inaugurate a severe campaign against the revolutionists.

Oroville has a Blaze.

OROVILLE, Cal., May 24th.—A fire broke out here this morning at three o'clock in the City Bakery, corner of Myer and Bird streets, completely destroying the building and two frame dwellings and damaging the Masonic Hall to the extent of five or six hundred dollars; also, burning the woodwork around the Mercury printing office. The property belonged mostly to Mrs. Winters and was insured for $500. Mrs. Winters was rescued from the building in an unconscious state, and is badly burned about the face and hands. The loss is about four thousand dollars.

Irrigation Convention at Colusa.

COLUSA, May 22d.—The irrigation meeting here to-day was well attended by the leading persons and land owners. Strong ground was taken against the State controlling the scheme. A committee was appointed to report at an adjourned meeting to be hold on August 24th. Great interest was manifested by the land-owners.

Execution Against the Central Pacific Railroad.

RENO, May 22d.—This morning an execution was issued against the Central Pacific Railroad Company for $54,000, taxes due this county. The execution has not yet been served and the probabilities are the claim will be paid by the company without further delay. This ends the long dispute between the county and the railroad company.

News of General Redington's Death in Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, May 22d.—The news of General Redington's death in San Francisco this morning has cast a profound gloom over this city, which has been his home for a quarter of a century. His remains will be brought to Sacramento by special train this evening. Flags throughout the city are at half-mast as a token of respect.

Crops in San Luis Obispo.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, May 22d.—The Tribune's notice of the crops in this county says: "The crops throughout the county, while not so good as was anticipated early in the season, are far from a failure. All the grain that was put in on well prepared soil previous to the January rains will return a full average yield, and many pieces upon extra good soil and favored locations will produce from sixty to eighty bushels per acre."

Marysville Items.

MARYSVILLE, May 24th.—The funeral of the late Hill Beachy took place from the depot immediately on the arrival of the passenger train from the South this evening. It was attended by his many friends and acquaintances. The pall-bearers were the Messrs. Jas. Hawork, C. H. Patterson, N. D. Rideout, John H. Jewett, L. J. Ashford and Geo. Merritt. The remains were deposited in the city cemetery, beside those of his wife and children.

At 3 o'clock this morning the Vandeveer House was discovered to be on fire, but was extinguished before the engines arrived. A close examination showed the premises to have been set on fire in several different places—three in the cellar and four in the upper stories. A liberal supply of kindling-wood and kerosene was used. This is the second attempt to burn the building within two months.

The prismoidal railway will have a public trial this afternoon about three o'clock, near the new depot, under the direction of E. J. Clayton, Chief Engineer. It will probably be in working order earlier in the day, but the formal trial will not be given until 3 P. M.

Vivian and a number of others in this city will give an entertainment for the benefit of the Orange Library at Orange on Thursday evening next. Madame Muse, pianist; Profs. Fischer and Myers, violinists; Prof. Arevalo, guitarist, and Mr. Fischer, the popular tenor, have volunteered their servics for the occasion. This is a strong array of talent, and a first-class entertainment is certain. Vivian is a whole company of himself, and when so well supported as he will be on this occasion a rich treat may be anticipated.

A negro and an Indian were arrested yesterday afternoon on Commercial street for fighting, and committed to jail. They will take an appeal this morning from the Marshal's jurisdiction to the Mayor's Court. It is suggested to send them to the chain-gang for twenty days, because they showed such poor pugilistic ability.

The proprietors of the St. Charles complain that they cannot accommodate the crowd of customers demanding entertainment of them. This is the good luck that attends successful hotel keepers. The traveling public appreciate good hosts, hence the popularity of the St. Charles. We would suggest to the owners the addition of fifty rooms.

The School Examination.

The examinations commenced yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. In the High School the Juniors were examined in algebra and physiology by Miss Hawks and in arithmetic by Dr. Lucky. In physiology the class used Brock's elegant plaster casts, by which they explained minutely all the important points of the body. The recitation was thorough and interesting, pleasing to the visitors and gratifying to the teachers.

This closed the examinations in the High School, as the Senior and Middle classes were examined on Monday. The examination of Miss Bengough's and Mr. Kimball's classes commenced at the same time and were continued all day. Miss Palmer's class commenced its examination at 1 o'clock. The proficiency was quite surprising, the tests employed being of the most trying character and receiving satisfactory solution.

Quite a large number of visitors were present and evinced great interest in the progress of the examination. To many it was an intellectual surprise, and they left the school highly impressed with the success of our public school system and with a flattering opinion of Dr. Lucky's superintendency. We again urge our citizens to attend the examinations. Go early and encourage teachers and scholars by your presence. This morning's programme is highly attractive: Read it and attend.

EDITOR HERALD: In yesterday's Express, in an article on the extension of the Spring and Sixth Street Railroad track to the upper depot, occurs the following statement: "It seems that certain parties connected with the East Los Angeles and San Pedro Street Railroad, a prismoidal street railroad, are the ones from whom these objections emanated, and that they have used and are using all the means in their power to prevent the proposed extension, and have gone so far as to cast slurs and insinuations against the Council." I wish to say the statement, so far as it relates to the Directors of the East Los Angeles Street Railroad, that neither as Directors nor as individuals is the statement true, either as to their own action or any one on their behalf.

President East Los Angeles and San Pedro Street R. R. Co.

The Exodus from Minnesota.

We find the following in the Santa Barbara Index:

We are pleased to learn that Judge Frank Beebe of Minneapolis, Hennepin county, Minnesota, has made up his mind to make Santa Barbara his future home. Judge Beebe was one of the pioneers in the Northwest and did his share to build up the splendid city of Minneapolis. The Winters there are too cold and too long, and he seeks the Eden of Santa Barbara for comfort and the enjoyment of life. Mrs. Judge Beebe has already arrived and is the guest of the family of Mr. Chas. F. Lucas, formerly of Minneapolis, who is here, beckoning his old friends from out the snowbanks of the Northwest.

We venture to say Judge Beebe will be living in Los Angeles shortly after his arrival in California. Santa Barbara is a nice place, but Los Angeles leads in business activity. Judge Beebe will illustrate the old dogger el:

How doth the busy Bee-be
Improve each shining hour.

The following gush we find in the San Bernardino Guardian: "We heartily wish the beautiful bride and the genial and gentlemanly bridegroom all the felicity possible to earthly lovers. That their honeymoon may extend through life, their domestic horizon always shine brilliantly in young lover's refulgent rays; their two lives milt in one, like two sunbeams uniting." The way that editor throws beautiful, genial, felicity, honeymoon, domestic horizon, young lovers' refulgent rays, sunbeams and other red-hot phrases, is equal to a meteoric shower. His wish that "their two lives may milt into one, like two sunbeams uniting," could only originate in the mind of an editor sweltering at 110 in the shade. If the Guardian had got this off a few weeks ago, he would have certainly been summoned as a witness in the Beecher case. The Brooklyn domestic horizon has always been shining in refulgent rays. That's what the jury's trying to find out.

The Bazaar, corner of Main and Requena streets, has just received an immense stock of new goods, consisting of clothing, dry goods, boots, shoes, hats, etc., which they will sell at bottom prices. Call and examine their stock. m1

A LETTER FROM FRIGID MICHIGAN.

The History of California Millet—Its Origin in the Egyptian Catacombs—Icebergs in the Lakes—Frost and Ice on May 14th in Michigan—Great Immigration Coming.

We have received the following letter from Menomonee, Michigan, dated May 15th, which shows the contrast between California and Michigan in a striking manner:

EDITOR HERALD: I saw recently in a number of the HERALD, or in a pamphlet sent out from your office, an allusion to millet as a production of your county. The thought struck me to inquire whether the millet alluded to was the true millet, or whether it was the Egyptian corn—which is a species of millet. The Egyptian corn or millet was first sent by me to California in 1856 or 1855. This corn was found rolled up in the hand of an Egyptian mummy; taken out of a catacomb where it had probably lain for thousands of years. It was brought home by some persons residing in Massachusetts who had been traveling in Egypt.

I was in California in 1850-51, and while there was very favorably impressed with the great agricultural capacity of the fertile valleys and river bottoms of that State. Other agriculture had made but little progress there. On my return to Illinois, my home at that time, and the next year after my return I made a visit to the East, and while visiting in Lowell, Mass., I made the acquaintance of a young lady, a relative of the persons who brought home this seed, and who presented me with a few kernels of it, which I took to Illinois with me and planted in my garden, where it grew and produced well. The growth and yield of grain from those seeds brought to mind the rich valleys of California, and led me to think that this seed would yield abundantly and might become valuable as a crop to the vast population that I then foresaw would some day inhabit those fertile valleys, some of them so much like the valley of the Nile, where this grain had been grown for how many thousand years I do not know and would hardly dare to guess, and which grain was probably the same that the children of Israel, in their times of direful famine, went down into Egypt to buy. I knew no person then who was engaged in agricultural pursuits in California, as my time had been mostly spent in the mountains, where gold was the only crop sought to be raised, and having no better method open to me to introduce it into California, I prepared a small package of the seed and sent it to the editor of the Alta California, at San Francisco. Knowing that he felt a lively interest in promoting the prosperity of California, I requested him to give it to some agricultural friends of his who would cultivate it and test its adaptability to the soil and climate of California, and I have since seen by newspapers that he did so and that in some parts of California it has become an abundant crop. This grain may be called either corn or millet. It resembles in shape a small kernel of Indian corn, but from the character of the stalk and the fact that the grain grows on the top of the stalks instead of on ears, I think it more properly classed as a millet. I write this for the reason that I suppose there are many persons in California who will raise it who do not know where it originated or how it got into California, and that they may have a curiosity to learn.

There will be a great outflowing this year from the States (as we used to say in '50) to California. The long, severely cold Winter has led the people to consider whether it is not better for them to go to a climate to pass the remainder of their days where they can have the whole of each year to enjoy the days left them, or whether they shall remain where they have only six months in each year to enjoy life in, while they must spend the other six in trying to keep from freezing.

During the Winter just past we have had three months in succession of cold weather, during which time the mercury seldom rose above zero, and during most of that time it was at from ten to forty degrees below, and three months more when it was but little above zero, and now ice-banks from ten to fifteen feet high may be seen along the shore of Green Bay, in the rear of my office, and last night the ground froze and ice made on shallow waters. When we read your Southern California papers and letters from friends there, we sigh for your shady orange groves and the balmy air of the Pacific slope. Yours truly,

E. S. INGALLS.

The Leavenworth Times has interviewed a returned Californian, a reliable resident of that city. He says hundreds of thousands of men are lying around idle. There are more men there than are needed, more than can live, and poverty and ruin are the inevitable results. In San Francisco rents are enormously high, a common two-story frame store-room, 24x60 feet, bringing $400 per month.

The Sacramento Bureau of Information had up to Tuesday found occupation for eighty-five laborers.

About A Newspaper.

The Louisville Courier-Journal has the following sensible remarks regarding the management of a newspaper:

Some people estimate the ability of a newspaper and the talent of its editor by the quantity of its original matter. It is comparitively an easy task for a frothy writer to pour out daily a column of words—upon any and all subjects. His ideas may flow in one weak, washy, everlasting flood, and the command of his language may enable him to string them together like bunches of onions, and yet his paper may be a meager and poor concern. Indeed the mere writing part of editing a paper is but a small portion of the work. The care, the time employed in selecting, is far more important, the tact of a good editor is better shown by his selection than anything else; and that, we know, is half the battle. But, as we have said, an editor ought to be estimated and his labor understood and appreciated by the general conduct of his paper—its tone, its aims, manliness its dignity and propriety. To preserve these as they should be preserved is enough to occupy the time and attention of any man. If to these be added the general supervision of the newspaper establishment, which most editors have to encounter, the wonder is how they find time to write at all.

All Sorts.

Blessed are the dressmakers, as the little darky said when endeavoring to repeat a verse of the beatitudes.

"Sinful sectarianism" is what a Unitarian theological student called it, because a Methodist girl refused to let him hug her in a camp meeting tent.

"There is no sunset in heaven," says a noted divine. "We go further than that," says an exchange; "there's no getting up of nights to draw the baby's legs back under the cover.,'

Mark Twain could have married sixty-five different girls for love, but he waited till he could love one with a coal mine in her own name.

A Chicago clairvoyant says that Charlie Ross is in Heaven. She was determined to locate him where no detective could strike his trail.

The Milwaukie paper which asserts that there are forty-four yards of trimming on a lady's bonnet willfully exaggerates. There are but thirty-eight.

A newspaper reporter who forgot to address Donaldson, the baloonist, as "Professor," had the doors locked on him and was chased out of the yard by a dog.

An old citizen of Vermont observes that when a Post-office clerk gets too high-nosed to lick a stamp on to a letter it is time that the country had a change of administration.

Duluth is fifteen years old and never had but one breach of promise suit, and that was settled by giving the plaintiff's father a pair of cow-hide boots with red tops.

The Rev. Murray condemns the religous excitement in England. The true way to serve the Lord, according to his ideas, is to own eight race horses and brag up the Adirondac regions.

Lexington was a great battle, all things considered, but that's no excuse for charging a centennial visitor thirty-five cents for a piece of custard pie and leave to sit on a horse-block to eat it.

I asked a maiden of seventy-three, how old a lassie would get to be, ere hope of wedded bliss would flee; said seventy-three, you need'nt ask me, inquire of Susan B. Anthony.

Somebody who has heard of a proposition to have seperate street cars for women, says that he sees no necessity for it, as he never had any objection to riding in the same car with a woman.

The latest Irish bull we read of is in the case of an Irish gentleman who, in order to raise the wind whereby to relieve himself from pecuniary embarrassments, got his life insured for a large amount and then browned himself.

Darwin has weakened on his theory, or rather taken a new one. He says it takes 100,000 years for an ape to be transformed into a statesman. We don't know much about apes, but it would seem as if they would get discouraged and decide on remaining apes.

Dr. Hall says that a person should not take over two drinks of water per day, but water doesn't cost anything, and if a man wants to drink a barrel an hour he'll do it in spite of all the Dr. Halls in America.

A man digging a well in New Jersey came across a hoop-skirt eighteen feet beneath the surface of the ground, and it flew up and struck him across the nose just as naturally as if he had come across it in an alley.

A Waterbury, Connecticut, baker lately smokod 100 cigars in thirteen honrs, on a wager. Everybody was satisfied except a neighboring undertaker, who was bitterly dissappointed at seeing him emerge from the ordeal as lively as a Nebraska grasshopper.

An Eastern paper says the spectacle of a party of men coming from California to Vermont to work a gold and silver mine would be something strange indeed; but there is a story that some Californians, having tested a quantity of the ore from the Wilmington, Vermont, mine, are going for it.

The latest wrinkle with a woman of fashion is that of having a model of her bust made, stuffed with wool and covered with cambric. This is deposited at her dressmaker's and upon it her dresses are fitted, saving the aforesaid woman of fashion all the arduous labor of "trying on," etc. What next?
